CARVED SIGNS and More Since 1984

CARVED SIGNS & FIRST IMPRESSIONS

A carved and gilded sign always denotes class and a sense of professionalism. For business, it is a sure way to make a favorable impression. For your home, a carved, gold-leafed sign can be something you enjoy and reflects the personal pride you take in your home and your yard.

Carved business signs are unquestionably one of, if not the, primary marketing tool that you have working for you at all times. Considering the importance of your image to your customers, a lot more should go into the making of your sign than just letters and paint. We help new as well as already established businesses develop a professional image that projects the unique and professional qualities of their business to others.

Carved signs have been a large part of our business since 1984. Our work ranges in style from traditional classic, v-carved lettering and gold-leaf, to contemporary designs, for commercial as well as residential uses. The “carved signs” page on our website (www.millersignsandgraphics.com) shows a few photos of various approaches to using the elegance and permanence of a carved sign. Take a look at what we offer and feel free to e-mail questions or requests, and let us help build your unique image with the elegance of a carved sign.

If you are in the market for a carved sign, before you do anything, we suggest that you take a look at our “sign-buying tips” page, also. Whether you order from us or someone else, there are a few things you will want to consider before you make that order!

We do more than just signs. Check our home page at “<http://www.millerart.com>” to see how some businesses capitalize on their investment in a sign by using the design in other ways to promote themselves. We have several profiles of customers who have developed a consistent visual theme for their businesses, from letterheads to jar labels, using their original design for a carved sign.
